

Once upon a time, there was a small fish named Finny who lived in a big, beautiful ocean. Finny loved to play with his friends, but he also loved to help his mother clean the house.

One day, Finny's mother asked him to help her clean the living room. Finny was excited to help, so he got to work. He picked up all the toys, dusted the furniture, and swept the floor.

When Finny was finished, his mother was so happy. She gave him a big hug and told him what a good job he had done. Finny was so proud of himself.

After Finny helped his mother clean the house, he went outside to play with his friends. They played tag, hide-and-seek, and had a lot of fun.

Finny was so happy that he had helped his mother clean the house. He knew that she was proud of him, and that made him feel good. He also knew that he had made his friends happy by playing with them.

Finny learned that it is important to help others, and that it is also important to have fun. He knew that he could do both, and he was happy to have both
